A Conversation with Vice-Chancellor Pearigen

Recently, faculty and staff gathered to learn more about Sewanee's 18th vice-chancellor. During the conversation, Vice-Chancellor Pearigen expressed the importance of working together to make Sewanee the best possible growing experience—intellectually, spiritually, and socially—for the University students. We thought you'd enjoy watching the recording. The topics ranged from Vice-Chancellor Pearigen's experience as president of Millsaps College to his fondness for Mary Chapin Carpenter's Why Walk When You Can Fly, with many insightful stops along the way.
